RECKLESS BOYS ENDANGER MANY

Stray Shot From Air Rifle Comes Near Causing Loss of Eye-sight.

An accident that almost resulted in the loss of an eye to Miss Fannie Howill occurred yesterday, when a small pellet of lead from an air rifle in the hands of an unknown youth struck her eye-glasses, breaking them, but being deflected by the glass and striking her on the forehead with considerable force. While the eyebrow and forehead were painfully cut, Miss Howill is congratulating herself on her narrow escape, as it is thought the eyesight would have been seriously affected had not the shot glanced from the glass.

The accident took place while two small boys, whose names could not be learned, as they took to their heels immediately after the occurrence, were shooting promiscuously with air rifles, and the neighbors in the vicinity of 759 Twenty-third street, where the trouble occurred, sent in several complaints yesterday afternoon about the boys carelessly using their air rifles in this neighborhood.
